Today, Ben spoke on the House floor about the Solar Technology Roadmap Act. During his speech, he discussed how it will benefit New Mexico and help make our country more energy independent. A recent study by the American Wind Energy Association found that New Mexico ranks second in the nation for potential solar-energy capacity. New Mexico has over 300 days of sun a year.

Take a look at the video: