Santa Fe, NM – Congressman Ben Ray Luján of New Mexico's Third District released the following statement today on Los Alamos National Laboratory's efforts during the gas outage.

"I want to extend my sincere thanks to everyone at Los Alamos National Laboratory for their efforts during the gas outage. The LANL community came together to assist those struggling to get through this crisis, from reducing energy consumption to providing assistance to those without heat. I applaud LANL for being sensitive to the challenges now facing their workers as they take steps to restore heat to their homes, fix broken pipes, and address other damage that occurred."
