Every August, members of Congress take a break from the heat of Washington, D.C., and return to their districts to meet with constituents and enjoy a little rest and relaxation.

Here's what they had to say:

....

Rep. Ben Ray Luján

"The last month was filled with travel, meetings and long drives to cities and small towns throughout New Mexico's 3rd District. Traveling an expansive district can be a challenge, but it could not be more rewarding, as it gives me an opportunity to talk with people from many communities and walks of life.
