

This weekend, Rep. Ben Ray Luján will visit Rio Rancho and Santa Fe. In Rio Rancho, Rep. Luján will attend the opening of a 100 percent solar powered home, which is the first home in New Mexico to be constructed with 100 percent solar power. In Santa Fe, he will attend a ribbon cutting for a new facility for St. Elizabeth's shelter. Casa Familia, the new building, will have beds for 16 single women, five rooms for families that can accommodate 25, and facilities where people can comfortably live their lives while they receive housing counseling and assistance to transition to independent living.
